Le futur

Ton ami Gus t'a préparé un petit texte. Peux tu-mettre les verbes entre parenthèses au futur ?

→ «Next Sunday we (to go).....to the mountain with my parents. Like every year, before leaving, my father (to wash) .....the car and my mother (to clean).....the house. My sister and I (to help).....to prepare luggage. We (to choice).....our clothes and (to put) .....them in our suitcases. We (to take) .....our dog with us. We hope that the weather (to be)..... fine. My father (to drive) .....for four hours. Maybe, we (to stop) .....a few minutes because sometimes my sister feels sick in car. When we (to arrive) .....at the end of the journey, we (to have) .....a picnic in a field. Then, we (to arrive)..... to the hotel for a week.” →

The future

✈️ « Next Sunday we will go to the mountain with my parents. Like every year, before leaving, my father will wash the car and my mother will clean the house. My sister and I will help them to prepare luggage. We will choose our clothes and will put them in our suitcases. We will take our dog with us. We hope that the weather will be fine. My father will drive for four hours. Maybe, we will stop a few minutes because sometimes my sister feels sick in car. When we will arrive at the end of the journey, we will have a picnic in a field. Then, we will arrive to the hotel for a week. » ✈️
